Mr. and Mrs James Quirk return from Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. James Quirk returned Tuesday evening from Winter Park, Florida where they have been since the last of December.

The Quirks left here the week before Christmas in their Ford coupe, and drove the long trip of 1560 miles, their route being to Washington D. C. Durham N. C. east to Augusta Ga. Waycross Ga. Jacksonville, Fla., Winter Park, Fla. The road from Durham to Jacksonville was bad, being so near the coast, as to be very swampy.

The first week in January they attended the Flower carnival, an annual event held at Miami, Florida, and on this time the weather was delightful, being almost identical to that here in September, but from this time on there was a great deal of rain and the air was damp and chilly.

The altitude of Winter Park is 57 feet above sea level, about the greatest height of any point in Florida, which seems very low compared with that of McKean county.

The greater part of the business in the south is carried on by northern people, the management of hotels, etc. The country is filled with speculators selling building lots.

The roads which are only eight feet wide are of mostly of brick and concrete, and carefully patrolled. Thirty miles is the speed limit on the country roads, and this rule is rigidly enforced, also that of dimming the lights, so naturally very few accidents occur.

The Quirk's passed through many beautiful Southern cities, they noticed especially the large number of fine buildings, and the mills for cotton weaving.

Because of the bad roads encountered on the trip down Mr. Quirk had planned to have his car shipped to Baltimore, but was dissuaded by a friend who told him of a more desirable route, which he took, leaving Winter Park Saturday, March 15th. The home trip was west from Jacksonville to Macon Ga., Atlanta, Athens, Greenville, Charlotte, N. C. High Point N. C. Durham, Clarksville, Va. Richmond and thence to Washington and home. Their route proved to be a very attractive one, and led directly away from the low swampy country.

The Quirks covered 6000 miles on and during their trip and had only two punctures but nevertheless they like McKean county better than Florida.

CANNON STORE AT LEWIS RUN BURGLARIZED

A bold robbery was committed at Lewis Run last night when thieves forced an entrance to the Cannon brothers general store and made away with merchandise, valued at least $200.

As county detective Jack Allison is Chief of Police Ernest Travis of this city made the investigation this morning, visiting the store in search of clues.

At the ground surrounding the building is frozen, no tracks were made by the robbers that would furnish a clue to the police. For the same reason it cannot be learned whether or not a car was used for the transportation of the stolen goods.

The thieves used a pick for gaining an entrance to the store, digging a hole in the ground, large enough for the admittance of their body through the aperature. After reaching the cellar they very easily lifted a trap door in the floor above and passed into the store proper, where they had everything their own way. They ransacked the entire stock and helped themselves most generously.

When the proprietors of the store opened up for business this morning they were greatly surprised and concerned to find everything topsy turvy and found that much of their stocks including clothing, articles, shoes, etc., were gone. The authorities were at once notified and the investigation started. The police expect to be able to recover the loot.—Star March 22.

Pinchot Writes For Miner

This is the second of a series of Six weekly articles, reviewing the work of the State Government prepared by the governor for the Readers of the Miner.

In this article I propose to tell how the taxpayers of Pennsylvania are being saved 10,000 for every working day. And just anyone should think that the State Government is serving the people less efficiently because of this saving. In the next article I will show that it never before has given the people such good service for their money—that in spite of the saving of $29,000,000 in two years, the state government is doing more for the people instead of less.

Anybody can save money by not spending it, but to do work for less money that is just as good, or even better, is not so easy.

The $29,000,000 to be saved when I come into office represented money which the state owed, and could not pay. Moreover, I was faced with the necessity of increasing the subsidy to the common schools by $16,000,000 over what it had been in the preceding two years, or I told the Legislature that it would provide new revenue equivalent to need the school subsidy. I would meet the deficiency by reducing appropriations. I then prepared my budget.

Appropriations for all departments were cut $23,158,257.37. In addition to the saving thus effected, deficiency bills, some of several year's standing, which totaled $6,604,000 have been wiped out since June 1, 1923. The saving thus effected totals $29,762,257.37.

New functions have been undertaken and financed, too, out of the normal increase in general fund revenues. We have paid an increase of $4,858,000 toward the Delaware River bridge, placed the highway bonds on a proper basis by increasing sinking fund payments by $2,670,000. added $1,300,000 to the public school employees' retirement fund and $75,000 to the mothers' assistance fund. Finally, we have set aside $1,105,000 to pay off interest bearing debts amounting to $850,000 to the City of Philadelphia and $500,00 for Valley Forge Park lands. These should have been paid long ago.

The savings have not been paper savings. Neither have they been made at the sacrifice of the work the State should do for most people. They do not mean, for example, that the school children of the state have been neglected. On the contrary, the school subsidy appropriations are greater than ever before. Neither do they mean the highways are suffering.

The state roads are better maintained than at any previous time, and more good roads will be built during the four years of this administration than ever were built in any state in that length of time. State hospitals are not suffering, for they are so much better managed than ever before that they also are doing better work and more of it for less money.

What these savings do mean is that political snaps have been abolished; that political favoritism has disappeared; that the supplies of the State are being bought honestly, intelligenty, and economically; and that the work of the State has been put on a sound business basis.

In 1922 when I was Commissioner of Forestry, men working by the day for my department sometimes had to wait for their money as long as three or even six months and during that year the average amount of unpaid bills in the Treasury Deparment on the first of every month was $13,500,000. On March first of the present year the unpaid bills amounted only to $1,091,140.68. After nine months of the two years in which I undertook to make it posible, the Commonwealth is already practically able to pay her bills when they come due.

From June 1, 1923, when the budget went into operation, to February 29, 1924, the Department responsible to the Governor have spent from the General Fund less for salaries than in the same months of the 1921-22 period $639,334.05—a saving of 14.4 %.

Tuberculosis Drive A Coming Success

Not only the County Chairman, D. L. Dennis of Eldred, but the Township leaders report that more and more as the campaign progresses they are convinced of the spirit of cooperation on the part of the public in general and the cattle owners in particular. The public including different women's clubs and business men's organizations heartily approve of the campaign to eradicate all tuberculosis in cattle in the county because they fully know what it means to the health of the public. The cattle owners in a good many cases recently have called either their township chairman or the Farm Bureau office, asking for an opportunity to sign application blanks for the test.

We wish again to publish the townships and towns in the county that have completed their campaign work, and add to the former list five news townships and two towns as follows:

| Township or Boro. | No. Herds Signed | % | No. Herds |
|---|---|---|---|
| Keating | 125 | 98 | 196 |
| Annin | 74 | 99 | 83 |
| Liberty | 176 | 99 | 179 |
| Sergeant | 38 | 99 | 48 |
| Norwich | 93 | 98 | 95 |
| Hamlin | 111 | 93 | 119 |
| Wetmore | 178 | 99 | 180 |
| Port Allegany | 56 | 100 | 56 |
| Lewis Run | 36 | 100 | 36 |
| Mt. Jewett | 37 | 93 | 40 |
| Bradford City | 16 | 93 | 17 |
| Bradford Twp. | 182 | 97 | 187 |
| Hamilton | 93 | 98 | 94 |
| Smethport | 46 | 93 | 49 |

Others according to the township chairman whose blanks as yet have not been returned to the office are as follows:

Eldred, Ceres, Otto and Foster Townships.

It is hoped that not only for the sake of the townships themselves but for the county in general that the rest of the reports may come into the office at an early date. The longer the testing is delayed the greater the risk of losing out on the test this spring which means that the funds might be exhausted by other counties. The townships endanger themselves because any one township failing to go well becomes as a knife in regard to the movement of cattle. Namely that no cattle can be taken out of their township without first being tuberculin tested.

CITIZENS' MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS RECEIVE HIGHEST APPROVAL IN THE NATION

President Coolidge writes the following letter to the authorities in charge of the Citizens Military Training Camps:

"I am deeply interested in the Training Camps which are promoting health among the young men of the nation, together with fitness for general civic obligations. The Military Training Camps Association has been an effective agency in promoting the work of the summer camps. I wish through your organization, to invite the young men of the nation to take advantage this year of the opportunity afforded them.

The object of these Training Camps is to bring together annually for a month's training, the best representative young American Citizens from all sections of the nation, to give them the basis of military instruction, and that will fit them to become influential leaders in their respective communities in times of peace, and leaders for National Defence in time of war; to indicate a stronger patriotism, and a wholesome respect for discipline and obedience to constituted authority; above all to teach the young men of this generation their serious duties, responsibilities and obligations to home and to country.

The camp for McKean County boys will be held from July 1 to July 30, 1924 at Camp Meade, Md. Young men between the ages of 17 and 24 of good moral character are eligible. The United States Government pays all expenses from the time the young man leaves home until he returns. It furnishes uniforms complete, food, bed and bedding, equipment and medical treatment free.

Application blanks will be furnished by writing to the Chief of Staff, 99th Division, Room 310, Westinghouse Building, Pittsburgh.

MISS E. GRATZ FOUND DEAD AT HER HOME.

Passing away, apparently without a struggle from an attack of heart disease while she slept, the body of Miss Ellen Gratz was found in bed at her home, 101 Pine ave. about 4:30 o'clock, Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Pantine R. Burdick of this city.

Mrs. Burdick at once summoned a physcian, who quickly arrved and after an examination said Miss Gratz had apparently expired about an hour previous. Mrs. Burdick was a frequent visitor at the house and when she received no response to her calls Saturday afternoon, proceeded to Miss Gratz's bedroom and found her as above stated.

Miss Ella Gratz was about 70 years of age, born at Gratztown, near Harrisburg, daughter of Theodore Gratz and Ann Ellen Carlson, and was a descendant of the Gratz family, famous in the early history of Pennsylvania, particularly of Philadelphia. Rebecca Gratz famous in the early years of the preceding century as a philanthropist who resided at Philadelphia, was a grand-aunt of the deceased.

She was a sister of the late Sarah Gratz Rogers, widow of Hon. Lucius Rogers, one of McKean county's most prominent citizens for many years. She came to Smethport from Gratzville shortly after the marriage of her sister and then came to Kane when Mr. and Mrs. Rogers became residents of this city a number of years ago and had since made her home here.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in St. John's church, Rev Fischer officiating. Interment will be in Harrisburg, where the remains will be laid at rest beside her father and mother.—Kane, March 21.

A revolver having been found on the premises during the raid, Early was sentenced to 45 days in jail when he pleaded guilty to illegal possession of firearms and failed to pay a fine of $25. He is an alien and could not secure a firearm permt.

The raid followed an alleged sale by Early to State Policeman Heritesko of a half-pint of liquor. Immediately following the sale, Corporal of State Police Kirk Heritesko, Chief of Police Travis and Capt. Sweet raided the place. The found a gallon measure containing four pints of alleged liquor and another half-pint bottle partly filed with the liquor.

A warrant charging violation of the liquor laws also has been issued against Frank DeSandi of No. 26 North street. # "Price Class"

the mysterious stranger in the motor industry

Does a difference in price indicate a difference in quality? Why is one car priced 25% to 50% higher than another of the same quality? The 4 questions that a buyer should ask when considering any car.

HERE are facts based on world's engineering authority. If you have any intention of buying an automobile, you are urged to read them.

No "Price Class"

There are only two kinds of automobiles today. Economically produced cars which give you more for your money. And cars which are not, and give you less.

Price does not indicate intrinsic worth. But an individual maker's cost of production.

Hence two cars may show a price difference of $400 to $1,200 and more. And be of the same quality.

The difference in price simply shows that it cost one maker more to make this car than the other. Judging value on price, this is folly. Price class is a myth.

Where the Difference Comes in

Studebaker, producing 150,000 cars yearly, has reduced engineering cost to $3.33 per car.

This is based on a total engineering cost of $500,000 a year, which is the least on which any manufacturer can maintain an efficient engineering department.

Thus a manufacturer producing but 20,000 cars a year must add $25 per car for engineering, or eight times as much as Studebaker.

Other fixed overheads have been reduced proportionately. And these influence Studebaker prices.

A set of body dies costs $100,000. It will produce many thousand sets of body stampings, each one as perfect as though there were only a dozen made.

By building 50,000 bodies from a single set of dies, Studebaker reduces the die cost per body to only $2.00.

The average small manufacturer whose volume will enable him to build only 5,000 bodies from a set of dies in the same time in which Studebaker builds 50,000 has to charge each body $20 for die cost. The difference of $18 is in the price but not in the body. The customer pays it but he gets nothing tangible for it. It is one of the penalties of uneconomical manufacture.

Thus a car priced at $1,200 to $1,400 can be sold as low as $1045 when produced economically in quantity. Such a car is the Studebaker Light-Six Touring Car, at $1045. A clear difference of between $155 to $355.

The uneconomical manufacturer is not profiteering. He is unfortunately situated, that is all.

Equalled Only by Costliest Foreign and American Makes

All Studebaker models are equipped with Timken bearings. There are few cars in America, regardless of price, which equal ours on this point. In our Light-Six, for instance, we put more Timken bearings than are used in any competitive car, within $1,500 of its price.

We subject Studebaker cars to 30,000 inspections. That requires 1,200 men. All told over 70,000 hand and machine operations are performed in the manufacture of a Studebaker car. In so many operations, though each one is small, there is great opportunity for economy and savings. 15% premium is paid on many steels to insure Studebaker specifications instead of "commercial run" used in cars many times.

Studebaker price:

No finer car can be built than the Studebaker of today. Only famous foreign cars and the most costly of American cars, compare.

See a Studebaker—Then Decide

Buy no car until you've seen a Studebaker. Go over it, point for point. Consult any unbiased expert. Ask your banker. And you will own a Studebaker.

Get an Answer to These 4 Questions Before Buying Any Car

1—Is this an assembled car? Or "partly" assembled. Insist on this answer. Assembled cars pay a profit to from 75 to 100 parts makers alone.

2—What sort of bearings? Studebakers are Timken-equipped. Everlasting smoothness and quiet performance result.

3—How many cars a year does this maker produce? Small productions mean either a higher price or cheaper car.

4—What sort of upholstery? Studebaker closed models are done in Chase Mohair, the finest material for this purpose known. Open models are upholstered in genuine leather.

Why Studebaker excels the world in body building

For 72 years Studebaker has been a builder of quality vehicles.

This historical tradition has been inbred in generation after generation of coachmakers. And the Indiana city of South Bend is known as a world-Mecca of artisans of this craft.

In the modern $10,000,000 Studebaker body plants, there are sons and fathers and grandfathers working side by side. Their religion is fine coach building. And this is reflected in their work.

As fine body builders, Studebaker stands supreme. No other maker has the experience of Studebaker. No other the Studebaker traditions to inspire him.

Woman Translates Bible From Original Texts

Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery of Rochester, N. Y., who has been at work for the past five years on a revision of the Scriptures and has completed her version of the Four Gospels, translating them into English from the original texts. She is one of a distinguished line of Baptists who have labored to make the Bible known to every race and nation.

The first woman to translate and revise the Bible, she has—the Baptist Publication society announces—"given a sweet womanly touch to the finer passages."

Hawaiian Sorcerer, One of the Last, Dies

The ranks of the kahunas, or medicine men of old Hawaii, which have thinned steadily since the white man's invasion of the Islands, have been depleted further by the recent death of Kekiowai, one of the last of the kahunas, at his home on the island of Molokai.

In olden times the purpose of the kahuna was twofold. Primarily, his duty was to heal the sick. Secondarily, he would for a consideration "pray to death" the enemy of any of his patients or patrons.

The islanders were so superstitious that the work of the kahuna usually was effective, and the victim, as soon as he discovered that he was the object of the kahuna's curse, would waste away gradually until death, according to the tradition.

Finds Value of Average Human Being Is 98 Cents

The net material value of an average human being is 98 cents, according to analytical research made by Dr. C. A. Pierle, head of the department of chemistry at the West Texas Teachers' college at Canyon, Tex. Doctor Pierle has found the body of a man weighing 150 pounds if divided into its component chemical elements would be found to contain enough water to wash a pair of blankets, enough iron to make a ten-penny nail, lime sufficient to whitewash a small chicken coop and enough sulphur to kill the fleas on a good-sized dog. All these elements he estimates could be purchased at a drug store for 98 cents.

Making Boy New Fingers

Surgeons in a hospital at Wichita, Kan., are making a new set of fingers for Prescott Breth's right hand. Prescott is four years old.

His fingers were drawn out of shape in a fire, but skin from other parts of his body is being used to make them like new.

HARD TO TELL.

Holly called on his friend Cuthbert and observed that the latter had installed a bowl containing one goldfish.

"Ah, you have a goldfish," he remarked.

"Yes," he replied. They smoked a while. Then Holly resumed the conversation.

"Does the goldfish know you?"

"I cannot tell," responded Cuthbert. "It makes no sounds, and its tail wagging seems to be for purposes of propulsion only."

BOY IT MAKES GRUESOME FIND

Frank Moore, 11 year old boy, found the frozen body of John Drumm at the County Home Thursday afternoon. Drumm was seen at noon hour but a short time later young Moore discovered the body hanging from a vertical steam pipe. He put with having used a sheet for a rope and said he tied a "timber hitch" on the pipe to end his earthly trouble. Schutt & Gibson took charge of the remains which were shipped to Butler. Drumm was for years a well known character in the lumber woods all through this county. No doubt many readers of the Enterprise will remember him in the days when lumbering was about the only industry in Potter county and whiskey was considered a drink. Drumm being an excessive user of that commodity. He was 72 years of age and is survived by a brother living in 1919. The old man's mind had not been quite right for several years. Coudersport Enterprise.

BUILDING BOOM REMORED

Not just since the first few days that a building boom is on, but right in the midst of the most severe winter we have experienced, Smethport is enjoying one of the greatest building booms in its history. It is declared a time almost impossible for renters and newcomers to find suitable homes.

Under the new arrangement record home sales will be built this spring. Realtors declare there is every indication that the proposed plan will be carried out.—Eldred Eagle March 21.

SURVEY WILL START.

Word has been received here that the State Highway Department will start the survey of the Burtville road next week. There are over seven miles of road to be surveyed, and the work will be carried on as rapidly as possible. It will probably take from four to six weeks to survey the road, after which plans and specifications must be drawn up and the road advertised for bids. It is hoped that the contract for the letting of the road can be awarded the latter part of May or the first part of June.—Port Allegany March 20.

MEETS DEATH IN RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Word came today of the death in a railroad accident of Dexter Hills, of Original Cyclone. Mr. Hills has been a resident of Hutchins for a number of years, and is the grandson of Mrs. H. E. Hicks of this place.

Surviving deceased are his widow and four children, his father, two sisters and four brothers all of this place.—Eldred Eagle Mar 21.

A THING OF THE PAST

The Interstate Window Glass Co. who owns and controls a dozen window glass factories in Pennsylvania, most of them equipped with blowing machines, is dismantling its big plant at Shinglehouse, most of the machinery having already been shipped to other of its plants. The cutlet from one tank has been broken up and shipped to Mt. Jewett the past few weeks, but the cutlet in the other tank will not be taken out until the tank has been taken down. The gas, steam and water lines are being taken up, the oven taken down, and it is thought that the large building housing the flattening and cutting department will soon be taken down an shipped to Smethport ad Mt. Jewett, where the company has other plants.

This big plant was erected by the Palmer Window Glass Co. back in 1901 and operated successfully for a number of years, but they lost out finally and went into bankruptcy. They leased and drilled for gas which heated their big tanks, warmed and lighted the plant. It was one of the finest plants to work in in the United States, and no matter what "cinderheads" left for a number of years, but they lost glad to get back to the good old Shinglehouse plant. The town has lost quite a few of its former citizens, but with our two silk mills and other small plants, we are still doing fairly well, thank you. The biggest industry we have though is the big farming section along the Oswayo Valley and its tributaries. The gas field is holding up very good for one that has been doing business for the past 45 years.—Oswayo Valley Mail, March 19.

NEW PORT ALLEGANY HIGH SCHOOL WILL COST $85,000.

Port Allegany, March 20.—The meeting of the board of this village on the recent election, with regard to the immediate erection of a new high school to replace the one destroyed by fire recently. The official vote was 502 in favor and 125 against.

The passing on this issue gives the school board of Port Allegany the privilege of issuing $85,000 in bonds for the purpose of erecting a modern new high school building. The $25000 insurance on the burned building will be added to the above amount for the new building cost, approximately $81,000.

Action will be taken and the contract let as soon as possible. It is expected that the new building will be ready for occupancy by January 1st, 1925. The school is badly needed.

SERVICES FOR A. C. BANNON.

Funeral services in memory of Alva C. Bannon, for a score of years a resident of Bradford and perhaps better known as the superintendent of the water works at St. Bernard's church, The Rev. David F. Hickey had charge of the services. The pall bearers were Arthur Butler, John Lavery, James A. Lindsey, Major Lester H. Simons, W. J. Fitzgerald and Walter Shaw.

The interment was held Saturday in the family plot in St. Bernard cemetery.—Bradford Star, Mch 22.

DR. KING DECIDES TO REMAIN HERE.

Dr. J. W. King has returned from San Francisco, Cal., where he had been called to take the presidency of the Abrams College of Electronic Medicine. Dr. King prefers to remain in Bradford and as it was necessary for the president of the college to reside in San Francisco he decided not to accept the honor conferred upon him.—Bradford Star, March 21.

BODY OF CLARENCE WILKINS FOUND IN ALLEGANY RIVER

The body of Clarence R. Wilkins 25 years old son of Mrs. Mina A. Wilkins, 343 Irving street, Olean, who had been missing from his home since Tuesday, 27th, was found in the Allegany river just east of the Pa. R. R. bridge, Olean, Tuesday afternoon by Patrolman Frank Mc Duffy. Coroner Wilson was notified and a certificate of accidental drowning was issued.

Oscar Holland, 10 years old of Gordon avenue, found the body while wading in the river. He hurried to police headquarters where he notified the authorities. The body was later identified by a relative.

Wilkins had been in ill health for some time previous to his disappearing. Police believe that he became despondent over his condition and committed suicide. When last seen he was walking in East State street in the direction of the creek.

Many people were out searching for him, including the marshalling of 400 Olean High School boys who scoured the banks of the creek and river and the surrounding territory under Chief of Police John C. Dempsey.

Besides his mother he is survived by one sister, Mrs. W. H. Williams.

The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from with Rev. E. A. Mathews, pastor of the First M. E. church officiating. Burial in Mt. View cemetary.

CLARION MAN LOCATES WIFE IN THIS CITY

Thursday afternoon a young woman arrived in this city on a B. & O. train whose peculiar actions attracted attention at the station and caused Chief of Police Fowler to be informed of the circumstances. Saturday Earl Brooks of Clarion arrived here seeking his wife, who is mentally deranged, and investigation proved she was the woman who arrived here Thursday.

The woman, whose name is Ida Belle Brooks, 21 years of age, of rather pleasing appearance, was found on Fraley street this forenoon by Chief of Police Fowler and taken to the Kane Summit Hospital to await the arrival of her husband, at which time disposition will be made of the case. It is probable Mrs. Brooks will be sent to the State Hospital at North Warren.

Mrs. Brooks visited the Republican office Friday afternoon and said she was a sister of Brookville that she was in Kane on legal business that would make necessary a stay here of two or three weeks and that she wished a place as a nurse where she could earn her board and lodging during that period. She seemed to be entirely rational at that time and was sent to a prospective position from the office. While she did not obtain that position she soon found another place but disappeared from that home yesterday, considerably to the anxiety of the family. However during the time she has been in Kane she has not been given treatment and most of her wanderings have been accounted for. She has been wearing a dress that was more suitable for summer. There was nothing about her personal appearance to indicate her deranged mind. She suffers from the hallucination that he has lost an infant child and is constantly seeking it.—Kane, March 24.

ESTHER MELBERT RUNS AWAY

Warren police Thursday night picked up Esther Melbert, a pretty Jamestown girl, aged 16, as she alighted from a Jamestown car and she was detained in the city jail until the Jamestown police arrived and took her home. The girl was apprehended on a call received by the police that she had run away from home. Pearl Lauke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Lauke, of Warren, returned to her parents Thursday night through the efforts of Jamestown police who picked her up on the streets of that city. Warren was notified and her folks drove to Jamestown and brought her back. Police say this is not the first time that Pearl has left home without the consent of her parents.—Kane, March 22.

EDITORIAL

NO CHANGE IN PRESIDENTIAL TERMS.

By decisive vote the Senate has rejected two plans for limiting the length of service by Presidents. One scheme prohibited a second term. Only four Senators favored it. A second change the four-year term to six years and denied re-election. That went down 45 to 10. Efforts to monkey with the Constitution in this respect bob up occasionally. They never meet with sucess. In this instance they have been bowled out so completely that they are likely to take a long rest. The argument against a second term is always the same that an occupant of the White House may be tempted to use his four years in building up an organization strong enough to retain him for the next four. And if he can reign for eight years, why not indefinitely, thus founding a sort of dynasty? Well, the Nation has been running on an even keel for quite a time, and a dynasty has not yet appeared. Only one President ever has sought a third consective term, and that was General Grant. It was denied him. And in these days the President who desires a second term must win it, not through political manipulation, but by rendering satisfactory service to the people. One good term deserves another. That is the principle we are going on in the United State It is an excellent principle. If a President makes good, eight years are not too long. If he does not, there is opportunity at the end of each four years to relieve him. There is no real demand for altering the venerable custom. We have in the case of Calvin Coolidge a President who does not cater to politicians; who considers every great problem calmly and sanely and acts precisely as his conscience and common sense and his ideas of justice dictate. He ignores possible effects to himself personally. He refuses to be led by partisan or unworthy motives. He sees only the welfare of the public. That is why he has on soley upon his merits the confidence of the people. And that is why he will be nominated at the coming Republican convention.

LET'S WATCH OUR STEP

Basing its estimates on past accidents The American Railway Association concludes that some 2,500 of us will be killed and 6000 injured by railroad crossings during the present year. This means that 200 persons a month will be killed and 500 a month injured. Why not eliminate the grade crossings. Because it would cost too much. In 1922 the roads eliminated 706 crossings; but there are 256,305 crossings still left; and to do away with them would cost several billions of dollars more than the estimated value of the entire railroad system of the country. At the present rate of doing away with crossings it will take 362 years to have the country free from these danger points. So we will have to watch our steps, and lookout for the locomotive for some time to come.

SIGNS BY THE HIGHWAY

A town in Kansas invites tourists with this sign at the town's entrance: "This is Lone Wolf. Speed limit 195 miles per hour. Fords do your best. Watch us grow."

In Michigan is this one: "Take your time and save a fine."

New York has this one: "Go slow and see our city; speed up and see our jail."

Vermont: "No limit to speed, but don't kill the kiddies."

The Michigan highway commission has this along its main highways. "Courtesy makes safety."

Several thousand confront you with this: "Welcome to our city," when in most cases it is only a village.

WILLIAM WRIGHT SAYS

"I believe in newspaper advertising. I spend about a million dollars a year for newspaper space to tell the world about the goods I have to sell.

Nearly everybody reads the papers and they are the most effective medium to reach the buying public quickly and often."

COLD WEATHER AND POLITICS.

Speaking about the cold weather, we have it on good authority that a number of politicians in Washington have suffered from the exposure. Some have sought a warmer climate, while others have developed severe cases of cold feet.

St. Elizabeths Aid Society will hold a cooked food sale, Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at St. Elizabeth's church Hall.

PINCHOT WRITES FOR MINER

During the same time the traveling expenses of the State employes have been cut 25%; the telephone and telegraph expenses of the State have been cut one-third; while nearly half the former cost of printing and building is being saved. The economies thus effected will not be eaten up by deficiency appropriations when the next Legislature meets.

In the past Departments which were not satisfied with what the Legislature gave them simply went on and spent what they chose. The chairman of an important commission actually wrote that he did not know the amount of his appropriation and had never inquired. I have put an end to that. Every Department now has its own budget and reports to me monthly in advance just what it intends to spend. If it proposes to live beyond its means I have power to stop it, and I do.

I could give many other examples, but these are enough to show the way this Administration has gone at its task of putting the State back on a pay-as-you-go basis, and what are some of the results. I can best sum up as I began—that the departments responsibe to the Governor are saving the taxpayers a total of $40,000 for every working day.

Plant-and more Plant

During 1922 we added twenty millions of dollars' worth of equipment to our plant in Pennsylvania. Last year the figure was thirty millions. Those were record-breaking years. This year it will be forty millions. As far as we can see now, the coming five years will require about $173,000,000.

These figures are not of our making. The people of Pennsylvania by asking us for telephones—more and more telephones—are telling us how much new plant we must add.

Although the figures are large, we're in this business to give you all the service you need when you want it and where you want it.

That's why we're spending these millions of dollars in Pennsylvania.

And all of it is for construction—none of it goes for operating expenses. None of it goes for maintaining the equipment; although, of course, both maintenance and operating expenses increase as the telephone plant grows.

These millions must be raised largely in the form of new investments in the property.

Our business is not alone to spend this money as economically as possible. We must also, by sound business management, continue to hold your confidence, for it is to you that we must come for these new investments.

Such a Set Gives Volume and Distance.

By LEON BISHOP

Procure any standard make of 180-degree variocoupler, rewind the stator with 40 turns of No. 20 double cotton covered magnet wire. At a point eight turns from the ground side of the winding take off a tap which goes to the antenna. Across the coil connect a .002 variable condenser. This condenser must not be over .0005 capacity, but unfortunately variable in anything.

The grid condenser has a capacity of .00025 mfd and the grid leak a resistance of 2 megohms. The bypass condenser is .005 mfd. The audio coupling or amplifying transformer may be any of the so-called high ratio types.

The first tip detector tube should have a resistance coupled plate circuit of the second or amplifying tube, as shown by 20 ohms. The detector tube takes its proper voltage variable from 6 to 22 volts.

It is important that the outside windings of the secondary be connected to the grid, and that the inner side of the secondary shall be connected to the negative side of the A battery and not to the negative side of the filament.

This circuit, when working properly, will not only regenerate but will split over when the rotor windings become parallel with the stator.

Most of the tuning is done with the rotor at almost right angles to the stator. This circuit will operate almost any type of loud speaker with wonderful volume. It is even possible to put over long distance reception with stations 1,500 miles distant.

The multiplex circuit is not only extremely sensitive but wonderfully selective.

The [illegible] are eliminated by using UV-201A tubes.

Following several valuable suggestions these adjustments in the multiplex circuit are advised:

Instead of a variometer in the plate circuit, to produce regeneration, a much simpler action may be obtained by using a standard variocoupler, the 180-degree type is selected. The rotor winding need not be changed, as the average variocoupler has a sufficient number of turns to produce regeneration over the frequency used in the music broadcasting.

In this circuit the antenna is connected to eight turns from the ground, as shown in the diagram. This eliminates a tremendous amount of code interference, and it will be easily possible to listen to the shorter wave stations, even through the local interference of station WEAF.

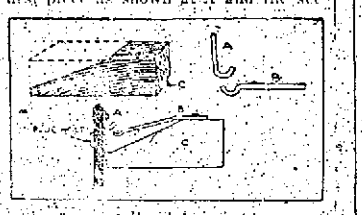
It must be remembered when using the 180-degree type of variocoupler that it may be necessary to reverse the connections on the rotor. When the proper connections are obtained and the rotor is turned parallel to the stator winding, a terrific screech should be heard in the phones. In other words, the best point of tuning is arrived at with the rotor at about right angles to the stator.—New York Herald.

200-Meter Work Makes Interesting Listening

There is some interesting stuff in the air down below the wave length used by the lowest of the broadcasters. It's no use to listen down there until 10:30 p. m. or later, because the amateurs, 90 per cent of them, keep off the air during broadcasting hours. From eleven o'clock on, however, even if you do not read code, there is some interesting amateur phone traffic on 200 meters and lower. You'll find it extremely sharp and requiring care in tuning. Perhaps, too, you'll begin to realize what you are missing by not knowing the code. Then, you'll start a class of [illegible] and [illegible] of operating [illegible] and [illegible] partly but unreal at value in anything.

Use Wood and Copper for Open Circuit Jack

It will be found that a very good open circuit jack can be made as follows: A block of wood ¾ inch square 3¾ inches long is cut as shown at G. Procure two small pieces of copper and cut one of them ½ by ¾ inch and the other ¾ by 1 inch. Bend the first piece as shown at A and the second piece at B. A hole large enough to allow the plug to pass through it is bored in the other exactly in front of the piece when the block of wood is to be used.



One piece of copper A is screwed against the panel and when the hole is bored in the panel it will make a good contact. The strip B is also screwed in place on the block so that the tip of the jack is pushed against it. The block is now fastened in place and the jack is complete.—Radio Digest.

Flexible Leads Save Breaks in Portable Set

When building that portable set for the summer vacation and other trips, use of flexible wire for connections inside the set will probably save lots of trouble from broken connections due to jars and other causes. These connections are not quite so efficient, due to capacity effect from the insulation, but they are safer and a broken connection out in the woods, miles from a soldering iron, is a calamity. Keep them short but not taut enough to be under a strain. Copper lugs should be soldered to each end to go over the binding post spindle.

Caught as Catch Could.

Said a Radio fan,
As he raked in his cash,
"This is catch-as-catch-can,
I guess that's what I got."
Then he turned on a wheel
And the stuff that he got—
A political spiel—
Made him swear quite a lot.

Short Wave Sets Produce Results

Extreme Simplicity and Selectivity Are Features Worth While.

Almost every operator is interested in the other fellow's receiver if he gets good distance with it and for that reason a description of the tuner at 3YO is given.

The following is a description of the set used by 3YO (Lafayette college) in tuning in four European stations within two hours in one evening during the recent trans-Atlantic tests. These four stations were located in three different European countries, SAB and SBE of France; PAO of Netherlands, and 2SZ of London.

An antenna 250 feet long was used. For that reason it was thought better results could be obtained if the aperiodic system were used. To do this two turns were wrapped around the grid coil of six turns. The stator was six inches in diameter. This gave good coupling and eliminated tuning the antenna circuit. Various numbers of turns were tried in the grid coil L-1 until ten was decided upon. The condenser across this coil, C-1, was a .0005 mf. with a vernier attachment. The tickler coil L-2 was made of 50 turns of small wire on the rotor of the variocoupler which was six inches in diameter. When arranged as described, and the tickler L-2 adjusted so that oscillation would barely take place the range of the tuner was from 30 meters to 200 meters as carefully checked by a calibrated oscillator and wave meter which was at hand.

The beauty lies in the extreme simplicity and selectivity. It has no taps, and so does away with dead end losses.

For amateur work the operators at 3YO believe it is correct. The operator has complete control without taking his hands off the two dials. Another feature is the elimination of the filament rheostat. A total resistance of 20 ohms is introduced in the UV-199 tube. The only dials or posts that need come out on the panel are those for L-3 and C-1, a phone jack, and antenna and ground posts. In fact, the ground may be left off, results being practically the same. The batteries may be connected through the rear of the set. Everything is mounted on the panel, so that the entire affair may be removed and the set repaired if necessary.

If the builder does not care to listen to the broadcasting and wishes to increase his wavelength range the only change the grid coil L-1 turns instead of 10. Everything else should remain the same. The range will then be from about 150 to 300 meters.

There may be one spot where the set will not oscillate. It is at the fundamental of the antenna, showing that energy is being taken from the grid circuit at that wave, leaving not energy enough to make it oscillate freely. This may be remedied by one of two ways, either remove the ground connection or place a coil of ten to twenty turns in series with the antenna. This will change its natural wave length, and the outfit will immediately oscillate freely again.—New York Herald.

Simple Switch Knob Any Novice Can Make

Those ardent radio fans who take pride in making as much of their own apparatus as possible can make a very neat looking, serviceable switch knob to go with the homemade silvered dials.

The top of an ordinary spool is cut off at the place where it ceases to taper and is sandpapered until it is clean and smooth. It is then given two or three coats of black enamel to improve its appearance. This makes the knob.

A long-threaded bolt of sufficient thickness to fit snugly into the hole in the knob is then pushed through the knob. The top of the hole is then countersunk so that the head of the bolt lies flush with the top of the knob.

The contact arm is cut from a strip of brass or copper. A hole is made in one end and the arm is then tightened to the knob by means of a nut.

On the other side of the panel the usual arrangement of washers, tension spring, nuts and wire connection is followed.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

ETERNAL MASTERS

TO CHOOSE the right color for a sunset sky, or the exact tone for a storming sea flinging its foam against the dripping rocks, is one of the many perplexities of the earnest painter.

Living colors cannot be put on canvas at one stroke.

The tints, shades, lights and shadows composing them must be "studied" and worked in until they blend in natural harmony, and make a perfect whole, otherwise they lack sincerity and fall short of truth.

To arouse admiration and hold it the gold and purple of the west must flash, glint and shine; the grays, greens, whites and umbers of the ocean and cliffs must sing their discordant notes in tune with Solitude's roaring voice.

To be of the truth, the artist must paint truthfully.

He must at every stroke of his brush hold to sincerity.

A mere "daub" will not suffice for the true painter. The picture over which he works and ponders must be a living, breathing creation of Nature.

It must be an aesthetic creation of exquisite beauty, showing in its atmosphere, perspective and breadth boldness and delicacy of treatment.

An artist may spend a life time in producing his masterpiece, just as a musician may consume years in composing an oratorio of alluring movements and engrossing changes of sentiment, endurance to go singing and dancing down the ages—down to millions of music lovers for unborn.

If we people of lesser gifts would give our homely endeavors such devotion as the genius bestows upon his we, too, would soon find ourselves rising to fame and honor and riding proudly on golden streams.

The young man in the field, at the forge or beside the desk, with his future before him, has within him the power to shape his own destiny. It is for him to decide whether he shall be a master builder or a tinker.

If he holds to truth, loyalty—fears not to soil his hands in manual labor—is patient, industrious and accepts advice in the spirit in which it is given, no opposing force can hold him back in the race. Faith and industry are the eternal masters of Fate.

INVENTORS EASY PREY OF CROOKS

Supposed to Be Cautious, They Prove "Suckers."

How inventors are being victimized in a nation-wide swindling game is brought to public attention by the League of American Inventors. According to all traditions inventors as a class are supposed to be poor. They are supposed to be suspicious and cautious to an unusual degree. But the success of the swindlers who are taking large sums away from them proves that not all inventors are literally penniless, and that those who have any money are apt to invest it more trustingly than the persons who buy oil stock and gold mines by mail order.

The sharpers who are fleecing inventors are both clever and efficient. They obtain their "sucker lists" direct-ly from the government, by way of the Patent Office Gazette. In this official publication the government regularly prints the names and addresses of all persons who have been granted patents since the preceding issue. In the course of a year some 50,000 names of possible customers thus fall into the hands of fake patent promotion companies, writes Frederic J. Haskins in the Chicago Daily News.

Attack Vulnerable Point.

The men who control these companies know that the average inventor believes absolutely in the importance of his invention, and that he will go the limit, financially, to have it developed commercially. They know also that in a great many instances the inventor with a new patent cannot put it on the market himself and has no idea how to interest manufacturers. The patent office cannot help him. It is concerned only with the recording of inventions. So the wily promoter is able to attack the inventor at the most vulnerable point, offering to assist the patentee to market his invention for a reasonable commission fee. This is the basis on which the patent sales swindles are operated.

The promoters work entirely by mail. There are a number of them and they are hard to catch. Their offices can be moved from one state to another over night, and it is an easy matter for them to think up new and high-sounding names for their companies when certain names begin to attract suspicion.

The Post Office department has investigated three of the companies and put them out of business. A. J. Wedderburn, founder of the League of American Inventors, has furnished the department with a long list of such companies, and the inspectors have stated that they expect to give special attention to the matter at an early date.

Meantime, Mr. Wedderburn says, the downfall of the swindlers is in the hands of the inventors themselves. If they are wary enough not to be taken in by impressive stationery and official looking contracts, fake sales companies obviously will have to seek another source of income.

To any one not suspecting fraud, the proposition made by one of these companies seems satisfactory from a business standpoint. The inventor receives a business-like letter in which the sales company asks permission to market his invention and assures him that it appears to have great commercial possibilities. The company is to have a stipulated commission when the sale is effected. The inventor apparently has nothing to lose. He is not asked to spend any money.

If he signs a contract, however, he begins gradually to realize that marketing a patent may involve all sorts of expenses. The fake sales companies are expert at fitting these expenses to the client's pocketbook. They can tell from the letters of the client just about the sum that can be got from him.

Drained to Limit.

Perhaps the first demand is for $25 to pay for printing a prospectus that will enable the sales company to present the facts regarding the patent in a convincing way. The inventor may then be told that a model is necessary in order to demonstrate the patent to a certain manufacturer. Next may come a demand for $100 or maybe $1,000, for a survey. The inventor is given to understand that his patent is most promising, but that certain manufacturers are holding off, and that the advisable move is to make a survey of factories using similar equipment. So it goes, as long as the inventor will send any money.

Generally speaking, once the client starts to spend money on the proposition he is loath to back out without receiving some return from the deal. But eventually the financial limit is reached—it may be $50 or $5,000. The inventor grows irate or alarmed. He then receives a brief and formal letter stating that his invention has proved to be of no commercial value. The letter may even end curtly. "Please don't bother us with any further correspondence."

There are variations of this scheme. Some of the promoters demand, and get, a preliminary fee which may be as high as $100. One agency advertises itself as a "buyer of inventions for firms." For $15 it would present an invention to firms which would be likely to buy it. The inventor is politely informed, in due time, however, that no firm had been interested in his idea.

"Yessum, I might as well admit that I'm a panhandler."

"Well, my furnace needs attention. Yonder is the ashpan. Let me see you handle that."

Chance for Misunderstanding.

"How's your old father?"

"He's in heaven now."

"So? I'm very grieved to hear that."

Our Continuous Obligation

Last year we put in 158,000 new telephones in Pennsylvania. This year we will put in 168,000. During the five years beginning January 1, 1924, the total will be 925,000.

These are gross figures. Our net gain will be about half that number.

Here is an interesting fact: During the coming five years we will actually put in a hundred thousand more new telephones in Pennsylvania than there are in service in the State today.

Every telephone line requires a pair of wires all the way to the central office. That's why we are adding more than half a million miles of new wire each year to our plant in this State.

Every telephone line means central office equipment and building space. That's why we are adding a million and a quarter dollars' worth of telephone apparatus every month inside our buildings.

And that, too, is why it is necessary to enlarge our buildings and to build so many new ones.

All this in a tremendous hurry—why?

Because it's our job to meet the demands for service—not at our convenience, but at the time when the telephones are asked for.

And, too, every added telephone gives your telephone more power.
